Anuga 2017: Facts and figures

Jan Pettke is the new Chef of the Year 2017 and other exciting results

With around 165,000 trade visitors from 198 countries, after its new exhibitor record (7,405 exhibitors from 107 countries), Anuga 2017 also registered a good increase in the number of visitors. In addition to products and concepts, also plenty of valuable information and cooking presentations were offered in the scope of special events, congresses and workshops. For example, the Anuga Culinary Stage presented many opportunities to experience aspiring young chefs at the stove, get to know new products and gain new ideas for one's own kitchen.

An overview of the highlights of the events and congresses is found here:

Anuga Culinary Stage

Here, 44 chefs prepared dishes in 9 professional kitchens over the course of Anuga. 16 patissiers demonstrated their skills. Among others, the finals of "Chef of the Year" and "Patissier of the Year" were staged here.

Jan Pettke is Chef of the Year 2017

Chef de cuisine, Jan Pettke; from Scheck-In-Kochfabrik in Achern, won the famous professional cooking competition after an exciting and star-studded final. The Austrian chef, Christopher Sakoschek from Kirchdorf in the Tyrol, came second. Third place went to Jürgen Kettner, Junior Sous Chef at the Schöngrün Restaurant in Bern. Hence, for the first time the winners came from all three countries eligible for participation in the competition (D-A-CH).

Mike Kainz is the new Patissier of the Year.

Mike Kainz (Grand Hotel Les Trois Rois, Brasserie) from Basel won the title Patissier of the Year. In the final of the international dessert contest, the 24-year-old competed against fellow patissiers from Germany, Austria and Switzerland. The patissier Yoshiko Sato, who also works in Basel (TAVERO AG), came second. Third place went to André Siebertz from the Clostermanns Hof Hotel in Niederkassel-Uckendorf.

Anuga taste Innovation Show

67 products were presented in the "Anuga taste Innovation Show". An expert jury chose the winners from over 2,300 products entered in the Anuga New Products Database. They can also be viewed on the Anuga website after the trade fair: www-anuga.de / www.anuga.com
